Cautionary Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

The information in this Item 7.01 of this Current Report on Form 8-K, including Exhibit 99.1 contains “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the “safe harbor” provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including but not limited to, statements regarding projections, estimates and forecasts of revenue and other financial and performance metrics, projections of market opportunity and expectations, the Company’s ability to scale, grow its business and execute on its growth plans and hosting contracts, source clean and renewable energy, the advantages, expected growth, and anticipated future revenue of the Company, and the Company’s ability to source and retain talent. You can identify forward-looking statements by the fact that they do not relate strictly to historical or current facts. These statements may include words such as “aim,” “estimate,” “plan,” “project,” “forecast,” “goal,” “intend,” “will,” “expect,” “anticipate,” “believe,” “seek,” “target” or other similar expressions that predict or indicate future events or trends or that are not statements of historical matters. All forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties that may cause actual results to differ materially, including: our ability to earn digital assets profitably and to attract customers for our digital asset and high-performance compute hosting capabilities; our ability to perform under our existing colocation agreements, our ability to maintain our competitive position in our existing operating segments, the impact of increases in total network hash rate; our ability to raise additional capital to continue our expansion efforts or other operations; our need for significant electric power and the limited availability of power resources; the potential failure in our critical systems, facilities or services we provide; the physical risks and regulatory changes relating to climate change; potential significant changes to the method of validating blockchain transactions; our vulnerability to physical security breaches, which could disrupt our operations; a potential slowdown in market and economic conditions, particularly those impacting high-performance computing, the blockchain industry and the blockchain hosting market; the identification of material weaknesses in our internal control over financial reporting; price volatility of digital assets and bitcoin in particular; the “halving” of rewards available on the Bitcoin network, affecting our ability to generate revenue; the potential that insufficient awards from digital asset mining could disincentivize transaction processors from expending processing power on a particular network, which could negatively impact the utility of the network and further reduce the value of its digital assets; the requirements of our existing debt agreements for us to sell our digital assets earned from mining as they are received, preventing us from recognizing any gain from appreciation in the value of the digital assets we hold; potential changes in the interpretive positions of the SEC or its staff with respect to digital asset mining firms; the increasing likelihood that U.S. federal and state legislatures and regulatory agencies will enact laws and regulations to regulate digital assets and digital asset intermediaries; increasing scrutiny and changing expectations with respect to our ESG policies; the effectiveness of our compliance and risk management methods; the adequacy of our sources of recovery if the digital assets held by us are lost, stolen or destroyed due to third-party digital asset services; the effects of our emergence from bankruptcy; and our substantial level of indebtedness and our current liquidity constraints affecting our financial condition and ability to service our indebtedness. Any such forward-looking statements represent management’s estimates and beliefs as of the date of this Current Report of Form 8-K. While we may elect to update such forward-looking statements at some point in the future, we disclaim any obligation to do so, even if subsequent events cause our views to change.

Although the Company believes that in making such forward-looking statements its expectations are based upon reasonable assumptions, such statements may be influenced by factors that could cause actual outcomes and results to be materially different from those projected. The Company cannot assure you that the assumptions upon which these statements are based will prove to have been correct. Additional important factors that may affect the Company's business, results of operations and financial position are described from time to time in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2024, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and the Company's other filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Company does not undertake any obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise, except as may be required by applicable law.

Core Scientific and CoreWeave Announce $1.2 Billion Expansion at Denton, TX Site

Expands Total Contracted HPC Infrastructure by CoreWeave to Approximately 590 Megawatts of Critical IT Load at Six Core Scientific Sites

New Agreement Boosts Total Contracted Revenue to $10.2 Billion over 12-year Contract Terms

AUSTIN, Texas – February 26, 2025 – Core Scientific, Inc. (NASDAQ: CORZ) (“Core Scientific” or the “Company”), a leader in digital infrastructure for high-performance computing (HPC) at scale, today announced an expansion of its relationship with CoreWeave, an AI Hyperscaler. The new agreement brings $1.2 billion in contracted revenue across Core Scientific’s Denton TX location, solidifying Core Scientific’s position as a premier provider of application-specific data centers for HPC workloads.

The 70 MW of expansion at the Denton site brings the full critical IT load to just over 260 MW. The expansion increases CoreWeave’s total contracted HPC infrastructure with Core Scientific to approximately 590 MW across six sites. We believe these enhancements align with CoreWeave’s growing need for robust, high-density infrastructure to support NVIDIA GPU operations.

“We continue to expand our HPC hosting infrastructure,” said Adam Sullivan, Chief Executive Officer of Core Scientific. “By increasing our capacity at Denton, we are building one of the largest GPU supercomputers in North America. This expansion powers artificial intelligence and meets the growing demand for scalable, high-power data center solutions that we believe enterprises require for high-density AI computing.”

Mr. Sullivan added, “Our investment in digital infrastructure is a testament to our commitment to innovation and leadership in the HPC industry. We remain focused on growing our pipeline of infrastructure projects to deliver increasing value to both customers and shareholders alike.”

This latest announcement further positions Core Scientific as a leader in the high-performance compute data center space. The company is actively seeking additional sites to expand its HPC hosting capacity. With over $10 billion in potential cumulative revenue with CoreWeave, we believe Core Scientific is strategically positioned to capitalize on the growing demand for energy-dense, application-specific data centers.

Under the terms of this 70MW expansion, Core Scientific is responsible for funding $104 million of capex ($1.5M per MW) for the powered core and shell, with CoreWeave responsible for the additional capex associated with the expansion. The company also retains the option for two additional five-year renewal terms.

With its 1.3 gigawatts of contracted power, Core Scientific plans to provide a total of approximately 900 MW of gross capacity for HPC hosting to support alternative compute workloads, based on geographic proximity to major cities and fiber lines. The remaining 400 MW of contracted power is currently allocated to support the Company's bitcoin mining business.
